

MAYOR WILL VETO BOTH ORDINANCES

Dissatisfied With Amounts Appropriated for Sweeping the Improved Streets.

WISHES QUESTION SETTLED

Proposes That Property Owners on Paved Streets Pay All or Part of the Cost.

The ordinance passed by the city council Thursday night providing an additional appropriation of $1,000 for improved streets and $300 for unimproved streets for the remainder of the present year will be vetoed by Mayor Ross. He said today that while he has not yet filed the veto he fully intended to do so. He will also veto the ordinance providing for the appropriation for improved street in 1916.

It was stated today that a veto of the ordinances did not necessarily mean that no money could be appropriated for keeping the improved streets clean, but that the amount provided for in the ordinance would revert to the general fund, unless the ordinance is passed over the Mayor veto. Two-thirds vote of the council would be necessary to do this. Three of the councilmen voted for the ordinance.

The mayor is hoping that the question can be compromised and that further contention will be avoided. He says he would be willing to permit the improved streets to have part of the appropriation for streets upon the theory that they are used more than any others in the city and the travel upon them is heavier than in the outlying districts.

Relative to the question the mayor today said:

"The impression some have that a veto of the appropriation ordinance for improved streets means that no funds are provided for sweeping improved streets for next year is not strictly accurate. Sufficient levy for all purposes has been made and the amount appropriated for improved streets will now go into the general fund.

"The councilmen who voted against the improved street appropriation are not disposed to deny these streets their just dues, mindful at the same time of the fact that the unimproved streets must receive their proportion of the revenue. Assuming that no district is seeking any advantage over any other district in the distribution of revenues it is only necessary to determine what at least is an approximately equitable distribution and fair, for liberal minded citizens will willingly submit to it.

"That the distribution proposed is glaringly inequitable, must be admitted by all who carefully consider the matter. Under it one district gets eight and one-half times as much per mile of streets as the other. One section is swept 313 times a year and washed 100 times. The other section with accumulated worn out road material and other debris making a dust which neither sprinkling nor oiling will settle and which with every passing vehicle raises a diseased laden dust.

"Now we think a more equitable distribution of the revenues would enable us to remove this accumulation, crown the streets, resurface them with gravel here and there and put them in condition to be sprinkled or oiled which would be paid for by the property holders, as we think flushing should be paid for on improved streets.

"I think we are all agreed the city should keep all streets in a good state of repair (this we have not done with our graveled streets.) Then if revenues will permit, flush, oil or sprinkle them. But to flush, oil or sprinkle certain sections at public expense and even put in repair other sections is clearly a discrimination that cannot be defended.

"Neither the mayor nor the three councilmen are disposed to deny the improved streets their just dues, but we do insist on the same recognition of unimproved streets. We believe all fair, liberal minded citizens will concede this."

PRIZES OFFERED FOR COUNTY SHOW

Members of Corn and Poultry Clubs Will Compete With Their Fathers and Mothers.

PREMIUM LIST ANNOUNCED

Free Trip to Purdue Corn School Will be Given for the Best Acre of Corn.

About forty girls and boys of Jackson county, who are members of the several corn and poultry clubs, are expecting to have exhibits at the County Show which will be held some time in December. The members met at the court house Saturday to receive instructions and were addressed by Prof. J. A. Linke, of Purdue, and County Agent A. D. Cobb.

The young people were very enthusiastic over their club work and all want to get into it again next year. Youthful corn growers reported that although rain had damaged their crops during the summer, their corn was looking fine, and all of the girls reported large flocks of "fries" that would tempt a Methodist minister.

The premium list arranged by the county agent and officials in charge of the club work is as follows:

Best Acre of Corn—Free trip to Purdue Corn School in January.
Second Best—Pure Bred Pig.
Third Best—Bushel of Pure Bred Seed Corn.

Best Poultry Raiser—Trip to Purdue Short Course in January.
Second Best—Pen of Pure Bred Chickens.
Third Best—Pair Buff Orpington Chickens.

A first prize will also be offered in each township consisting of a half bushel of seed corn for the corn club winners and a setting of eggs valued at $2.50 for the poultry club winners.

The seed corn has been donated by Henry Lucas of Brownstown, and the Pair of Buff Orpingtons was offered by Mr. Cobb.

There are nearly a hundred boys and girls enrolled in the clubs of the county and all are bending the most earnest efforts toward the winning of a prize.

SCORE INJURED AT WASHINGTON

Many Local People Witness Accident When Aeroplane Crashes into Spectators.

AVIATOR WAS DESCENDING

Several Persons Believed to be Fatally Hurt—Flight at Labor Day Celebration.

Quite a number of local people were at Washington Monday and witnessed the aeroplane accident which occurred late in the afternoon when H. C. Wilke, an aviator, was descending from a flight. It is said Wilke lost control of the machine. It crashed through several stands and other light structures on the grounds and several persons were hit. Seven are reported to have been seriously hurt and more than a score received slight injuries.

Those seriously hurt were: Joseph Singleton, 11, skull fractured.

Mrs. Vincent Jones, 55, skull fractured.

Miss Mabel Taylor, 17, skull fractured and scalped.

Mrs. A. J. Hart, two ribs fractured, internally injured, serious.

George Batchelor, 17, injured about the hips.

Mrs. Joseph Yeager, 50, may be internally injured.

Miss Hazel Ballard, 19, right ear torn off; believed to be internally injured; serious.

The aeroplane flight was the concluding feature of the day's celebration at the old Fair Grounds. Oscar Cook, an employee of the Howell Aviation Company of Chicago, made a perfect flight, rising to a height of about 5,000 feet. When he landed he came from the southwest instead of the west, as expected. As the machine struck the ground it swerved, crashed through a refreshment stand and bounded into a crowd. Many children were in front and they were knocked right and left or succeeded in dodging the wings of the machine. Larger persons were knocked down, those in front being most seriously injured.

Many persons were trampled in the rush of the panic-stricken crowd to escape from the path of the machine. Most of them were children. When the aeroplane had plowed its way to a standstill in the crowd dozens of persons were spattered with blood from those who were injured. One little girl, whose dress had been white, was drenched from head to foot. When she was picked up it was believed she was dead, but the child did not have a scratch. She had been standing near the Singleton boy, whose skull was fractured, but she stooped beneath the wings of the machine as it struck the crowd. Cook was still in his seat when the aeroplane halted.

Every physician in Washington was called to attend those who were hurt. Two ambulances carried the most seriously injured to the hospital a mile away.

Cook's aeroplane was badly damaged, the wings being bent out of shape. Cook said it would cost

REJECTION OF NEW LAW POSTED

B. & O. Southwestern and Pennsylvania Lines Will Not Accept Workmen's Compensation Act.

HOW NOTICE AFFECTS SUITS

Three Defenses Not Available to Employers Who Do Not Operate Under Statute.

In view of the notices that have been posted by the B. & O. Southwestern Railroad Company and the Pennsylvania Lines that both companies have elected to reject the provisions of the new Indiana Workmen's Compensation Act there is considerable speculation among the employes as to the effect of such notices. The C. T. H. and South-eastern Company has not posted such notices and in their absence it is taken that this company will accept the provisions.

The Act is optional or elective with both employers and employes. In other words, both employers and employes, by giving the notice provided for in the Act, may reject its provisions.

In order to make the rejection effective, the notice must be given either at the time of the employment or at least thirty days prior to the injury. No affirmative action is required on the part of either employers or employes in order to come under the provisions of the Act. In the absence of an express rejection in the manner prescribed in the Act, acceptance is presumed. No rejection is the equivalent of an express acceptance.

Every employer who elects not to operate under the Act shall not in any suit at law by an employe to recover damages for personal injury or death by accident be permitted to defend any such suit at law upon any one or all of the following grounds:

That the employe was negligent.

That the injury was caused by the negligence of a fellow employe.

That the employe had assumed the risk of injury.

Every employe who elects not to operate under the Act shall, in any action to recover damages for personal injury or death brought against an employer accepting the compensation provisions of this Act, proceed at common law, and the employer may avail himself of the defenses of contributory negligence, negligence of a fellow servant and assumption of risk, as such defenses exist at common law.

At common law, an employe, suing for an injury, and his administrator suing for his death, were required to allege and prove his freedom from contributory negligence.

The rejection of the Act by an employe probably restores this common law burden.

Compensation is based alone upon injuries caused by accident and arising out of and in the course of the employment. It is allowed for death only when the death of the employe is the result of such an injury. It is never allowed for disease in any form except as the disease shall re-

COMMISSIONERS PREPARE TO LET BRIDGE CONTRACTS

Appropriations by the County Council Will not be Made Before Wednesday.

The county commissioners were still in session today and were scheduled to take up the bridge contracts this afternoon. At 3 o'clock, however, none had been awarded. It was expected that the contracts for about $15,000 worth of new bridges would be awarded before the term adjourned. The bridges are in various parts of the county and were damaged or washed out during the July storm. The county council was also in session today. The estimates filed by the several county officers were being considered but the appropriations for the next year will probably not be made before tomorrow afternoon. The council will remain in session two days.

CITIZEN SOLDIERS HOME FROM BATTLE

Boys of Company K in Thick of Big Fight Waged at Indianapolis Speedway.

NO LOSSES AT ROLL CALL

Success Company, K. of P., Also on Ground and Give Exhibition Drill—Many Local People Present.

Fighting like trained and seasoned veterans, charging like the famed heroes of the "Light Brigade," wading through showers of imaginary bullets and sniffing the smoke of battle with as much apparent relish as they had the smoke of crisp and sputtering bacon over their breakfast camp fires early in the morning, the boys of Company K, Indiana National Guard, fought their way all through the "War in Indiana" yesterday at the Indianapolis speedway and returned to the city last night with a little better idea of what war as it is waged today is really like. The monotonous press dispatches reading, "The Germans took a mile of trenches yesterday after several hours fierce fighting" or "The British captured two lines of German trenches on the left end of the battle front" will mean considerably more to the local soldiers from now on—because they had a faint sample of what trench fighting is like yesterday.

The Company K boys were in the thick of the "fighting" yesterday, and not once did they falter, according to the commanding officer, Capt. Abel. The company, which is a part of the Second Infantry, was assigned to the right sector of the attacking force, and after the first charge, occupied the foremost position along the firing line, on the right flank. The soldiers were each supplied with eleven boxes of twenty shells each, of ammunition and almost all of them managed to shoot up all of their shells. One recruit, who enlisted only last week, was so proficient with his weapon that he used all of his shells and borrowed five boxes from one of his fellow soldiers who was not quite so quick on the trigger. The boys were all pleased with the ex-

VENIREMEN ASK TO BE RELIEVED

Work of Selecting Jury in Trial of Mayor Joseph E. Bell Proceeded Slowly.

ALL DEFENDANTS ADMITTED

Court Instructs Bailiffs to Allow All Others Indicated to Witness The Trial.

By United Press. Indianapolis, September 7—Attorneys for the defense in the trial of Mayor Joseph E. Bell, starting in criminal court here today, charged in a statement in court before Judge William H. Eichhorn that bailiffs of the court had been instructed to exclude from the trial many of the interested parties. Judge Eichhorn did not issue any orders but intimated that all those indicted with Mayor Bell and were to be tried later should be admitted to the trial.

Prosecutor Rucker explained that the bailiffs had been instructed to seat the veniremen first and the others afterwards.

Frank P. Baker, former Marion county prosecutor and one of the indicted men had an altercation at the door when the bailiff refused him admittance. Many uncomplimentary things were said. Thomas Taggart, Democratic National committeeman also indicted, was with Baker. After several minutes they were admitted.

Business of selecting a jury for this trial went forward very slowly. An hour was spent in veniremen seeking permission to escape duty because of business reasons.

Attorney Ryan for the defense, presented a motion asking dismissal of seven men summoned by Sheriff Coffin for jury service when Coffin's deputies reported that seven men on the regular panel could not be found. Ryan contended this action was taken under the jurisdiction of Judge Collins, who he said, had no authority in this case. Judge Eichhorn took the case under advisement.

TROOPS BATTLE WITH MEXICANS

General Fighting on Border Country.

EXPECT CARRANZA ATTACK

Five Hundred American Soldiers Wait Attack From Five Hundred Mexicans on the Rio Grande—Boy Kidnaped by Bandits.

Galveston, Texas, Sept. 7.—Five hundred American soldiers are resting on their arms on the Rio Grande facing as many Carranza troops, near Mission, ready for battle.

All day the tension has been great and Americans have been waiting for the Mexicans to open fire. Although advices have been received that the Carranza soldiers would be withdrawn from the river, they are still in battle line. As yet no firing has taken place at this point.

Throughout the border country general fighting between detachments of soldiers and Mexicans have been reported. One of these encounters took place at Miami, fifty miles from Brownsville. Another battle was fought near Rincon. Here three Mexicans were killed. One American soldier was wounded, according to reports. Bands of Mexicans, heavily armed, were seen near Santa Marie and Cerinzal.

Four Mexicans were killed in various sections. These men were killed by individuals and rangers. It is reported that the war has degenerated into settling personal differences and that any American having feeling against Mexicans, promptly settles the same with a rifle. According to reports from Brownsville, Mission and Del Rio, several hundred Mexicans crossed the border at isolated places. These are expected to cause trouble.

United States aviators were fired upon north of Brownsville. The firing came from the Mexican side. The machine was not hit. About forty shots were fired. Carranza soldiers were camped in the vicinity, but Carranza's consul promptly denied that the soldiers did the firing.

At Olmote, thirty miles north of Brownsville, ten bandits robbed three stores and stole several horses. Reports from this section declare that Roy Martin, an American boy, twelve years old, was kidnapped by the bandits, who escaped across the river before the soldiers could be notified. It is supposed he will be held for ransom since his parents are wealthy. Opposite Santa Marie at Ensenada, a large force of armed Mexicans have arrived. They went into camp. Description of these Mexicans indicate that they are soldiers.

Near Sam Fordyce, seven bandits engaged a posse of citizens for more than one hour. Two Mexicans are reported killed here. The remainder escaped in the brush and cactus.

From Hartinger comes the report that this section is cleared of bandits. This is due to the fact that more than one thousand troops are stationed in the vicinity.

One Mexican is reported killed near Mission. Some three hundred shots were fired during the day across the border.

It is said that there are at least fifty bands of Mexicans operating over the large territory and it will be some time before the country is cleared of them. Just what Mexicans are friendly to this country and who are the raiders, is a problem the army has not solved.

General Funston declares that Carranza officers are urging a conference for settling the border troubles. It is intimated that none would be held until it is certain that regular Mexican soldiers are not participating in the border troubles.

Soldiers are sleeping on their arms ready to engage the enemy at once.

Evelyn Thaw May Not Oppose Husband's Divorce Suit.

New York, Sept. 7.—Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, her little son Russell, and her dancing partner, Jack Clifford, returned from Clifford's camp in the Adirondacks, where they have spent several months hunting and fishing. She and Russell are enjoying most robust health.

Mrs. Thaw, or Evelyn Nesbit, as she prefers to be called now, says that her position is precisely as she announced when Harry K. Thaw first said that he would seek a divorce. She said that she had no occasion to revise her statement that she has no interest in Thaw or his money. "Harry Thaw can do as he pleases," she said. "He can go as far as he likes without interference from me."

She protested all along that she did not want to discuss Thaw or anything connected with him. She assured the reporter that that she has not retained a lawyer to represent her in the divorce proceedings and probably would not do so.

BANKERS ASSOCIATION IN MEETING AT SEATTLE

Contended that Trust Company Should Not Have Powers of National Banks.

By United Press.
Seattle, Wash., September 7.—That Congress trespassed constitutional limitations in one section of the Federal Reserve Board Act and that the Reserve Board is going beyond its rights in proceeding under that section was the declaration of Henry M. Campbell, of Detroit, to the American Bankers Association today. The section he referred to is that permitting the board to confer trustee powers on national banks. It was the principal feature of the opening day of the convention, attended by hundreds of bankers, though a discussion of the relations between the railroads and the people, led by President William Sproule of the Southern Pacific on the one hand and Rev. John W. Hill of Seattle, on the other divided interest with it.

Congress did the damage complained of, Campbell said, in a four-line paragraph which said the Reserve Board should have power "To grant by special permit to national banks applying therefor, where not in contravention of state or local law, the right to act as trustee, executor, administrator or register of stocks and bonds, under such rules and regulations as the said Board may prescribe."

"In order to arrive at a solution of this problem, three questions must be considered:

"First. Has Congress itself authority, under the Federal Constitution, to confer upon national banks the right to exercise the powers stated in Section 11?

"Second. If it can lawfully do so itself, can it delegate such authority to the Federal Reserve Board?

"Third. If neither the Federal Reserve Board nor Congress itself can confer such powers upon national banks, have the states, or any of them, consented to the exercise of them, and if so, will consent on the part of the state be effective?"

Answering his own first question, Campbell said there was nothing to be found in the Constitution giving Congress authority to create corporations for any purpose, though it has the implied authority to create them as appropriate instruments for carrying into effect the powers of the government.

Therefore the section cannot be sustained upon any theory of implied powers.

He disposed of his own second question by declaring Congress could not delegate authority to the Reserve Board to create a corporation or add to a corporation's powers, because such an act involves legislative discretion and can only be exercised by the Legislature.

As for the various states giving consent—his third question—he declared.

"To do so would, in effect, be to permit the state legislature to amend the Federal Constitution. In other words, it is impossible to give effect to the section without violating the constitutional rights of the states. Two sovereign powers cannot exercise exclusive authority over the same object any more than two solid bodies can occupy the same space at the same time.

The answer to the third question must be that no state has consented to the exercise of the powers specified in the section upon the terms and conditions there.

"Before the theory of Section 11 can be carried out, an amendment to the Federal Constitution would be required, under which the states surrender their sovereign authority over many of their local affairs, and permit Congress to designate by whom

HARTFORD CITY MAN ESCAPES THE KNIFE

Charles Inman Able to Go to Work After Operation Was Avoided.

Charles Inman, 424 East Chestnut street, Hartford City, Ind., was desperately ill with stomach trouble. He was advised to go to Fort Wayne for an operation.

Then he took Mayr's Wonderful Remedy and in a short time was able to go back to work. In a letter he said:

"My disease started seven years ago. I had to give up and go to bed. Four doctors said they could not cure me unless I went to Fort Wayne to be operated on, and that it would cost $150 or $200. My daughter saw your advertisement and I took your treatment. In three weeks I went to work and haven't missed but one-half day since from sickness. It surely saved my life."

and in what manner such affairs shall be administered. Such an amendment would not accord with our tradition, and would constitute an unwarranted invasion of rights which have heretofore been jealously guarded by the people. It is contrary to the spirit of American liberty and dangerous as well, that any man, or body of men, shall have the unrestricted power to say to one bank, "You may act as trustee, executor, administrator or registrar of stocks and bonds," and to another bank, "You shall not"; or to dictate to the favored bank the manner in which it shall make use of the privileges thus granted.

"There is also something repugnant in the idea that a man from one part of the country, unfamiliar with local needs, possesses the power to impose his ideas upon a far distant community with which perhaps he has nothing in common, and of whose ideas and necessities he is ignorant. Local self government is not a matter of grace and favor, but of constitutional right.

"Certainly it is not unreasonable to question the wisdom of conferring such great powers upon any set of individuals, however wise or disinterested they may be, particularly when they are not selected by the people whose interests are affected, and are not responsible to them.

"I have been unable to discover any general demand on the part of the people for this surrender of their right to regulate their own affairs."

THROWN TEN FEET WHEN AUTO STRIKES WAGON

Mr. and Mrs. John Kysar and Mr. and Mrs. James Kysar Escape Serious Injury.

Mr. and Mrs. John Kysar and Mr. Kysar's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Kysar, escaped serious injury Monday when the wagon in which they were riding was hit by an automobile driven by a man from Columbus. The accident occurred near the home of E. E. Foster, Vernon township.

The wagon and the automobile were going in opposite directions. It is said that the machine was traveling at a good rate of speed and attempted to pass the wagon on a narrow stretch of the road. The front of the auto hit the rear wheel of the wagon and demolished it. John Kysar was thrown ten feet, but fortunately struck the ground in such a position that he was not injured. His wife was thrown on top of one of the wheels. James Kysar was also thrown out of the wagon, but was not hurt.

The horses broke out of the harness and ran almost a quarter-mile and were caught by Otis Bedel near the Newry bridge. The owner of the machine and the four men who were accompanying him offered assistance.

John Kysar is a rural mail carrier at Paris Crossing, Jennings county, and his father is a well known farmer of the Mt. Zion neighborhood. They were on their way to Seymour when the accident occurred. Their wagon was so badly damaged that it had to be left at the Foster farm where they secured a surrey and completed the trip to this city. None of the occupants were injured with the exception of slight bruises.

AUTO LEAVES HIGH BANK: FIVE OCCUPANTS ESCAPE

Members of Party in Accident on Charlestown Pike Visited Relatives Here Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Carr, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur B. Carr, of Indianapolis, and Miss Anna Guernsey, of Henryville, all of whom have relatives living in this city, escaped injury in an automobile accident on the Charlestown pike, two miles north of Jeffersonville, Monday afternoon. They are relatives of E. L. Hancock, G. L. Hancock and Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Guernsey, of Seymour. The four members of the Carr family were through here Sunday in their machine and spent the day with their relatives.

The machine went over an embankment when Arthur B. Carr, who was driving, attempted to steer clear of a mud hole. The car was driven on the grass at the side of the road and the wheels skidded. The machine was turned on its side and the occupants were severely shaken up, but none was injured.

The front axle of the machine was broken. The party had been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Granville McLellan, at Louisville. Mr. McLellan heard of the accident and went after the party and returned them to his home until the auto is repaired. It is expected that they will return home by way of Seymour this week.

FIRE DISTRICTS.

Seymour's fire map shows that the five wards are divided into twenty-two fire districts and when an alarm is given the fire bell gives the number of the ward in taps, then after a pause the district number is sounded. When calling the telephone exchange for a fire alarm always give the street and number where the fire is located. Do not attempt to call by fire districts.

Biliousness and Constipation.

It is certainly surprising that any woman will endure the miserable feeling caused by biliousness and constipation, when relief is so easily had and at so little expense. Mrs. Chas. Peck, Gates, N. Y., writes: "About a year ago I used two bottles of Chamberlain's Tablets and they cured me of biliousness and constipation." Obtainable everywhere.

VAUDEVILLE SHOW GIVEN BY SOLDIERS

Famous Forest in France, Scene of Heavy Shelling, is Also Playground.

CURTAIN RISES RAIN OR SHINE

Frequently a "Headliner" is Unable to Appear Because of Wound Received in Battle.

(By William Philip Simms, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

(Copyright 1915 by the United Press. Copyrighted in Great Britain)

"There has been a violent bombardment of the Forest of Apremont."

—From the French Communiqué of August 5.

With the French Army at the Front, August 5 (By Mail)—When the performances of Bernhardt, Irving, Duse and Mansfield cease to be anything but faint recollections I shall still remember quite vividly an unpretentious vaudeville show given by soldiers to soldiers out here in the open air 1500 yards back of a certain famous woods through which a most unhealthy part of the firing-line runs.

The performers were soldiers; the stage was built by soldiers with scraps of lumber collected here and there; the curtain was painted by a cavalryman on tarpaulins, walnut trees played the part of roof, while that part of the regimental band not busy bearing wounded on stretchers off the battlefield, furnished the music, these men and a young, stoutish surgeon—lieutenant who doubled on the piano when not stage-managing the acts.

The bill was the regular bill. It was not specially arranged for visitors. Since Jan. 14 this "house" has been playing to standing room only, two performances a day, at 2 p. m. and at 6. Sometimes—as often as possible—the bill changes; sometimes the headliner fails to be on hand for his cue; a shell or a bullet has interfered. But always, rain or shine, good bill or bad, the curtain "goes up" on time and the soldiers on their repose week (usually they have a week in and a week back of the trenches) never miss a performance.

As 6 p. m. drew near the plank benches in front were creaking under their maximum burden and hundreds of other poilus—the soldier's nickname for himself, meaning shaggy—were standing at the back and on either side. A heavy rain began to fall precisely at 6 o'clock but the fat surgeon, on opening the piano, turned and shouted:

"Poilus, you don't mind a little thing like a few drops of rain do you?"

"No!" the poilus thunder back and the surgeon, sitting down in a very wet chair began pounding out an astonished intermezzo on a no doubt greatly outraged piano. For, being in the place where the orchestra usually sits, the piano as well as pianist, was catching the full force of the young cloudburst. Every time a chubby finger struck a key there was a splash.

As the curtains parted the Germans began to bombard the French positions a short distance away. The explosions of shells punctuated every spoken line which followed and beat time to the music as if jealous of the big bass drum.

A clown in costume and make-up which only the ingenuity of a French soldier can account for, rushed out and began to sing and grimace. The audience roared. It was clear that he was a favorite. He was just back from the trenches and as he jabbered a comic patter song, with grimaces and antics like any Barnum & Bailey star, one caught sight of his manipulation number bound by a steel chain to his wrist; for identification in case he fails to dodge a bullet some day. The clown sang on and when he got round to the chorus his comrades in front joined in. A captain of dragoons, occupying a seat on a bench reserved for officers, sang and laughed with the others, freely and without reserve, yet I recognized in this captain a count and member of one of the proudest families in the Faubourg nobility of Paris.

The clown with his identification tag gave way amid applause to an acrobatic soldier—in peace times a professional—wearing the pink tights of tradition. He, too, had a tag on his wrist. A horizontal bar had been rigged up on the stage and as the soldier in pink tights began to gyrate upon it, the "comic" partner came out and "comicked" in the way everyone who has ever seen a variety show knows. Under his very much too large "comic" dress coat, on a very muscular wrist, was his in-case-of-death tag never letting one forget that just over the ridge a ways death was falling out of the skies at that very minute. The tags and the bombardment made the war seem very near.

An imitator of Houdini came next, wriggling out of handcuffs, padlocks and chains, ropes and other queer paraphernalia. No chains seemed too securely fastened about him for him to free himself of it—save the one which held the plaque which would identify him if some day he and a shell should get too well acquainted.

sult from such an injury.

The Act, as to compensation, covers all forms of employment except:

1. Casual laborers.
2. Farm or agricultural laborers.
3. Domestic servants.
4. Interstate or foreign commerce, in case the laws of the United States provide for compensation, or for liability for injury or death, by accident, of the employees engaged therein.

Notwithstanding the fact that casual laborers, farm or agricultural laborers and domestic servants and their employers are expressly excepted from the compensation provisions of the Act, yet such employees and their employers are authorized to voluntarily elect to be bound by such provisions.

Many people have the impression that the Act applies only to the employers of five or more persons, and that it does not cover the employer of fewer than five workmen. This impression is wholly erroneous. The application of the Act does not to any extent depend upon the number of workmen. It applies to the employer of one workman as fully as it does to the employer of one hundred.

"Employer" shall include the State and any municipal corporation within the State or any political division thereof, and any individual, firm, association or corporation or the receiver or trustee of the same, or the legal representatives of a deceased employer, using the services of another for pay.

"Employee" shall include every person, including a minor, in the service of another under any contract of hire or apprenticeship, written or implied, except one whose employment is both casual and not in the usual course of the trade, business, occupation or profession of the employer.

ADMIRALTY DENIES THAT HESPERIAN WAS WARSHIP

British Officials Say Allan Liner Had Never Been in Government Since War Began.

By United Press.

Washington, September 7.—The United States today ordered an investigation by its representatives abroad whether the Allan Liner Hesperian hit a mine or was torpedoed. A long confidential preliminary report from Consul Frost, Queenstown, said there is much doubt and that it is not at all conclusive that a torpedo caused the loss.

Ambassador Page today advised the state department that the British admiralty refutes a German charge that the Hesperian was a warship.

The admiralty states, Page reported, that the Hesperian was sailing as an ordinary passenger liner and has never been in government service since the war began and that no troops were on board except some wounded Canadian soldiers traveling on passenger tickets same as other passengers.

Woman's Beauty No Secret

It all lies in the care she bestows upon herself and in keeping at bay those dread ills peculiar to her sex. The aching eye, the elastic step and the clear complexion never accompany organic troubles. The distressed expression, lassitude, headaches and mental depression are only the tell-tale symptoms. Women so troubled should take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, that simple remedy made from roots and herbs, and restore their health to a normal condition.

MILITIAMAN BALL ON TRIAL FOR HIS LIFE

Walter Dowell, of Madison, was Shot and Fatally Wounded at National Encampment.

By United Press.

Indianapolis, September 7.—Militiaman Edwin C. Ball today went on trial for his life in the state house. It is believed to be the first time in the history of Indiana a member of the state guard was tried by court martial on the charge of murder.

Walter Dowell, a member of the company from Madison, was shot and fatally wounded by Ball, a sergeant, who was detailed to do provost duty. Ball's defense today was that he was acting under military orders when he commanded Dowell to halt, and that when Dowell failed to halt on command, he shot to kill, following army instructions.

Ball was on provost duty at the national guard encampment at Fort Benjamin Harrison here. It was in July, 1913. Dowell was under suspicion of smuggling liquor into camp. Sergeant Ball had arrested him and was taking his prisoner into camp on an interurban car when Dowell leaped from the car and ran.

Only a majority verdict of the military court of thirteen officers is needed to convict.

The Struggle For Free Schools.

From its very beginning as a state, Indiana had an exceptional record on paper—for the advancement of education. In practice, however, it was one of the most backward and illiterate of states at the middle of the Nineteenth century. All the Northern and some of the Southern states were ahead of her. In 1846 Caleb Mills, the New England apostle of education in Indiana, began that wonderful campaign for free schools before the legislature. Public sentiment at that time may be guessed from the impassioned utterance of a Hoosier statesman who said he wished his epitaph to read—"Here lies an enemy of free schools."

perience and expressed themselves as thoroughly enjoying it.

Success Co., U. R. K. of P. took part in the parade of semi-military organizations which preceded drill big battle and gave an exhibition drill which received much favorable comment. Many local people went up either Sunday or yesterday and witnessed the spectacle, and visited the local soldiers at their camp.

Capt. Abel has secured the use of the second story of the Stewart Garage building for armory purposes this winter and will commence at once to put the company through regular practice drills. The new location provides a large drill floor with sufficient space to execute most all of the exercises of the drill manual, and no pains will be spared to keep the company in the first class condition it now is. COMEDY OF ERRORS

AT SCHROER PARK

Ottos Lose Ragged Game to North

Vernon Athletics by Score of 10 to 9 .

ERRORS COME THICK AND FAST

Umpire Tripp Makes Some Poor

Decisions and Gains Displeasure of Crowd.

A comedy of errors, with several players vying with each other for the role of leading comedian, and the visiting umpire taking the heavy role of the villain, was presented at Schroer park Monday afternoon before a fair sized holiday crowd, most of whom had the stamina to wait for the final curtain. The comedy—melodrama or even tragedy would be a better word—came in the course of the third and deciding game of the series between the Ottos and the North Vernon Athletics. There were nine big acts, with music, fireworks and thrilling climaxes in each act. The score, according to unofficial figures—it would have taken a corps of trained accountants with a half dozen adding machines to keep tab on the hits, errors, wild pitches and passed balls—was 10 to 9 in favor of the team from North Vernon. The visitors opened the performance in the first act, introducing some old acts, only one of which made a hit, but it sent two previous performers, who had been allowed to stay on the stage through the kindness and generosity of the local stage hands, through the main exit for scores. In the third a trio of comedians waltzed around the stage, a killing duet was introduced in the fifth act, and repeated in the eighth without any encore whatever. The final ensemble number promised big things when they crowded three more out on to the stage, but the chief comedian of them all, who was coaching the fellow down at the third corner of the setting, violated the proprieties of stage conduct and his protegee was given the hook. Only one score resulted but this run the count up to ten, which was just one too many for the Ottos.

After putting one across in the first the local boys accomplished nothing in the scoring line until the fourth inning, when they mixed up some hitting with some of the visitors' errors, and added three. One more was made in the fifth, and another trio in the sixth. The villain got in his heavy work in the eighth. After two were out, Furnish singled cleanly to left. Glasson was sent to bat for C. Green, and, after Furnish had stolen second, and another rally seemed imminent, Umpire Tripp called the batter out on strikes that were both wide and high, and the stage hands, ushers, audience and everyone else howled their disapproval. Spectators who had been occupying standing room along the side lines jumped over the footlights and threatened the umpire. For a time the game threatened to break up in a row, but the hot heads were finally quieted down and the game was finished. The Ottos added one in their half of the ninth after two were down on Green's single and Fletcher's double. Both Furnish, of the locals, and Flecker, who essayed to pitch for North Vernon, were batted freely, and there were errors, wild throws and poor plays in a glorious profusion. The North Vernon players were guilty of the most of these, and the catcher must have had a dozen passed balls, while Flecker uncorked several wild pitches.

Diamond Dust.

Bad umpiring never justifies such conduct as was indulged in yesterday by a certain crowd of rooters. They kept up their taunts at the North Vernon umpire all the way up town, and even went so far as to throw rocks and clods at him. Such conduct is inexcusable and is deserving the severest condemnation.

Several of the local Boy Scout performers are going to be heard from within a few years. The way they hammered the ball in the second inning yesterday was lovely to look at.

Center Fielder Greene made a great one handed catch of a long fly in the eighth which prevented the visitors from adding at least two more scores.

As a pitcher, Mr. Flecker is a very good batter.

Mr. Tripp gave his first exhibition of temper in the Boy Scout game, when he fussed about giving the local lads the field—a right that is always conceded the home team. The Scouts twitted him about it all through the second game.

The Red Sox may make a week's trip starting next Monday. Three games have been scheduled with the Sprudels at West Baden, and negotiations are on with Washington and Princeton for games the latter part of the week.

Zimmerman and Lanth, who started the season with the Red Sox, were in the North Vernon lineup yesterday, and both came in for considerable joshing about losing their jobs here.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS.

All northbound trains and inter-urban cars were crowded this morning with State Fair visitors.

Baltimore and Ohio Southwestern train No. 3, the midnight westbound passenger, was nearly two hours late Monday night, owing to an engine breakdown.

Mrs. H. S. Prophet and daughter, Miss Carolyn, arrived Sunday night from Lima, Ohio, to join Mr. Prophet. They will reside on John street, near Fourth in Westover. Mr. Prophet is the manager of the F. E. Hoover furniture store, and has been in the city for the past month. He expects to make this city his permanent home.

The North Vernon chautauqua is in full swing, with good attendances and a program of unusual merit. The Kellogg Haines Singing Party gave a program of light and grand opera selections this afternoon and tonight Cimeria's band was on the program for concerts, and tomorrow evening Hon. J. Adam Bede, the humorous ex-congressman from Minnesota, is to speak on "Our County: Its Problems and Prospects." Wednesday afternoon Bede and Lincoln Dixon are to orate for the edification of a community picnic crowd on the chautauqua ground.

MRS. BESSIE WILLIAMS

DIES AT INDIANAPOLIS

Daughter of David L. Montgomery

Passes Away After Illness of Four Months.

The death of Mrs. Bessie Montgomery Williams, formerly of this city, occurred Monday at her home in Indianapolis after an illness of four months. For several days her condition was critical. She was the daughter of David L. Montgomery, of Redding township, but lived with her grandmother, Mrs. R. J. Montgomery in this city, while she attended the local schools. She was graduated from the high school in 1901.

The deceased who was thirty-two years of age was married about a year ago to Edgar Williams and since that time had made her home at Indianapolis. She was a young lady of charming personality and her pleasant disposition won her many friends. She is survived by her husband, an infant son, her father, step-mother, one sister, Mrs. Goldia Pierson, three half-sisters and two half-brothers.

The remains will be brought here Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock and taken to her grandmother's home on Blish street where the funeral will occur Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, conducted by the Rev. Henry C. Pierson. Burial at Riverview cemetery.

Miss Catherine Von Menkwitz, twelve years old, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Menkwitz, en route to her home in New York City, from the Panama-Pacific Exposition, suffered the loss of her right foot in a sad accident at North Vernon Monday afternoon. They were passengers on B. & O. train No. 2, and the girl alighted from the train at the North Vernon station to procure a sack of popcorn. In attempting to board the train after it had started, Miss Von Menkwitz's hand was grasped by the porter, who attempted to swing her aboard the steps, according to witnesses. In some way the girl slipped and fell between the plat-

Blame for the accident has not been fixed. WOMAN'S PAGE IS NEW FEATURE OF REPUBLICAN

Believing that the women of Seymour will appreciate a page devoted entirely to their affairs, The Republican takes pleasure in announcing that a "Woman's Page" will be a new feature of this paper. It will appear each Thursday and will contain articles of interest to club women and recipes and household hints and numerous other notes that will appeal to the housewife.

An interesting feature of this new department is that the columns will be open to all the women of Seymour and any contributions by them will be appreciated. Every housewife has an individuality in her methods of housekeeping. All of them have by experience, discovered ways of keeping house that would be of interest to their neighbors. The Republican wants such methods told in the columns of the Woman's Page.

Another feature will be the "Favorite Recipe" column. Every housewife knows of many recipes that are favorites with her family. Through this column others can be given the benefit of such recipes. It will be an exchange column of ideas and its value is at once apparent.

Several interesting articles have been contributed for Thursday's page.
 The Republican desires that the women of Seymour make this page one which will be a real value and service to them. The Republican wants every woman in Seymour to contribute to this department. All recipes, household hints and suggestions will be appreciated. Contributions will appear under signature unless the contributors ask otherwise.

Notice.

All accounts not settled by September 12th will be placed with an attorney.

AWAIT REPORT ON HESPERIAN

Berlin Will Be Asked For Information on Case.

NO SUBMARINE WAS SIGHTED

Opinion Seems to Prevail, Ship Was Torpedoed—United States Hopeful Destruction of Ship Was Not the Result of Attack.

Washington, Sept. 7.—While the belief prevails that the German government must make some statement with regard to the sinking of the Canadian liner Hesperian, no conclusions were reached here as to the effect the incident will have on the relations between the United States and Germany and the submarine issue generally.

What few indications there were of opinion in official quarters led to the belief that the administration will welcome any fact which tends to show that it was not a torpedo which caused the sinking of the Hesperian.

Consul Frost, at Queenstown, has added nothing to his message, saying that the Hesperian with two Americans on board, had been torpedoed, and no message at all on the subject was received from Ambassador Page at London. It is expected that Consul Frost will soon have additional information gained from the officers of the Hesperian, while it is thought Ambassador Page will have some facts from the British admiralty to transmit to Washington.

The sinking of the Hesperian before she reached Queenstown is regarded by many as favorable circumstance to the extent that it will make it much more difficult to determine positively whether the vessel was struck by a torpedo or a mine. As the case stands now, though, it is generally believed that a torpedo caused the damage, although there is no positive proof, while examination of the vessel herself is out of the question.

According to reports received so far, the Hesperian was struck in the darkness; there was simply a violent explosion and that was all. Persons taking the German point of view, lay much stress on the fact that practically all on board were British or Canadians, hence biased in their opinion.

While officials find it most difficult to believe that either the German government or a submarine commander would do anything in violation of Ambassador Bernstorff's statement that the Berlin government had decided many weeks ago not to sink liners without warning, the mine theory is regarded as doubtful. There have not been any proven cases of British floating mines being loose in those waters; it is stated by navigators that the currents in that region are such that mines would be carried northward rather than to the south of Ireland, if any laid in the channels had been broken loose.

Officials here believe the statements of passengers establish beyond doubt the fact that if a torpedo was fired at the Hesperian, it was fired without warning.

The expectation is that the usual inquiry will be addressed to the Berlin government as to whether it had any information about the case. An answer to this inquiry will probably be delayed two or three weeks—the Arabic was sunk nearly three weeks ago and the German government has not yet answered the inquiry of the United States. Upon the response given by Germany in the Hesperian case much will depend. Should the German government deny responsibility, many here believe that it will be most difficult for the United States to make an issue of the Hesperian in view of the lack of proof that it was a submarine which caused the sinking of the liner. Should responsibility be admitted, it is the hope and expectation of Washington that the action of the commander will be disavowed.

BOY BELIEVED MURDERED

Thought to Be Due to Jealousy Over Girl.

Kokomo, Ind., Sept. 7.—Walter Collins, eighteen years old, a son of James Collins, a prosperous farmer, was murdered, it is believed, some time during the night on the Cass-Howard county line, eight miles northwest of this city. His body, with a revolver bullet in the head, was found on the road by Price Odell, a farmer. Sheriff Popejoy of Carroll county, Sheriff Brown of Howard county, and Sheriff Stanley of Cass county are working on the case. No evidence which would warrant an arrest has been discovered.

A man living in Carroll county is said to have been jealous of the attentions paid by Collins to a girl.

Verdict Probably Suicide.
Kendallville, Ind., Sept. 7.—"Probably suicide" was the verdict of L. A. Berhalter, coroner, after investigating the sudden death of Dr. A. G. Coyner, age fifty-one, who was found dying in his office. He had practiced here for thirty years and was especially active in the Masonic, Elks and Knights of Pythias lodges.

TRENCH WARFARE

French Are Now Using Bomb-Proof Shelter.

IN BOMB-PROOF WITH SHUTTER.

Paris, Sept. 7.—Trench warfare in Europe is developing many ingenious inventions by soldiers of all armies, like the iron shutters fitted to bomb-proof shelters by some of the Frenchmen. When the firing becomes too hot the tenant of the bomb-proof cavern can close the shutters and find himself in comparative safety.

TERROR REIGNS IN SMYRNA

Anglo-British Forces Intensify Operations on Asia Minor Coasts.

Rome, Sept. 7.—The Italian premier has returned from the front. He will shortly preside at a most important cabinet council which will be the prelude to imminent developments in the Aegean, especially at Smyrna, where terror reigns. Dispatches from there indicate that the Turks are desperate, savagely persecuting the Christians who have been interned, as well as Europeans. Massacres are looked for at any moment.

Owing to the coal famine the city of Smyrna is in total darkness at night. Railway communications are partly stopped. The Anglo-British forces have been mysteriously reinforced recently and their operations have been identified along the coasts of Asia minor. Aeroplanes and torpedo boat destroyers are incessantly bombarding the ports. The destruction of barracks and signal stations will compel the Turks to withdraw to the interior, it is expected.

Bring In Oil Well.

Petersburg, Ind., Sept. 7.—Oil is running over the top of the casing of a new well on the William Finney farm, near here. In four hours forty barrels of oil were pumped from the well. Recently thousands of acres of leased land were released by oil companies.

British Ship Mimosa Sunk.

London, Sept. 7.—The British steamer Mimosa has been sunk by a German submarine. The steamer Roumania, lately reported sunk, is safe and is a man submarine. All of the crew has been rescued.

KAISER, WAR HERO, ENTERS THE FORTRESS OF NOVOGEORGIEVSK

Correspondent Describes Great Martial Spectacle After the Stronghold Fell. Military Experts Say That Grand Duke Recognizes Inferiority of Russian Forces.

MILITARY experts both in America and abroad agree that the evacuation of fortress after fortress by the Russian grand army is indicative of the fact that the grand duke recognizes the inferiority of the Russian forces to those of the Teutonic allies. It is plain from the dispatches received in this country that Przemyśl and Lublin were abandoned without defense and that Kovno was given up after the fall of the outer forts.

Between the lines of the German reports one can read that only a small force was left in Novogeorgievsk for the purpose of preventing the Germans repairing the bridges across the Vistula and preventing any navigation of this river until the main Russian army could make safe its retreat. Ossowetz and Brest Litovsk were held only temporarily to cover the retreat and then abandoned with small rear guards, which, of course, were captured by the born, whizzed past. The indications that something big was doing were confirmed presently by the sight of half a mile of German troops stretching across the plain in parade formation. We were just in time to clear the road when the imperial automobiles heralded the kaiser's coming.

The barren Polish plain and bleak sky overhead now witnessed a gathering of notables perhaps unsurpassed during the war.

While the band with brasses, fifes and drums discoursed march music the kaiser, followed by a brilliant train, walked with a long, firm stride out in front of the victorious troops, standing at rigid attention. It was a provisional brigade of about 10,000 fighters. The bearded landsturm and landwehr infantry formed a double line of field gray figures, dog tired from the hard fighting. Behind them in double lines were squadrons and mounted jaegers who had won glory on the Berezina, uhlands, cuirassiers—forest of steel fieldglasses. Moreover, this would be exceptionally difficult owing to the kaiser's temperamental style of delivery, which, in intensity of feeling and expression, was reminiscent of Roosevelt, but with more restraint and dignity. He used short, crisp phrases, each with a punch, speaking in a high, clear voice audible a hundred yards away.

With the ring of pride in his voice and mien, he praised the troops for the victory that had crowned their standards with laurels. With great earnestness, tinged with conviction, he spoke of the hard work still to be done by them. Then voice and features softened as he invoked the continued protection of the Lord of hosts. The intensity of his religious feeling stamped with dramatic genuineness words that read platitudinous when translated into English.

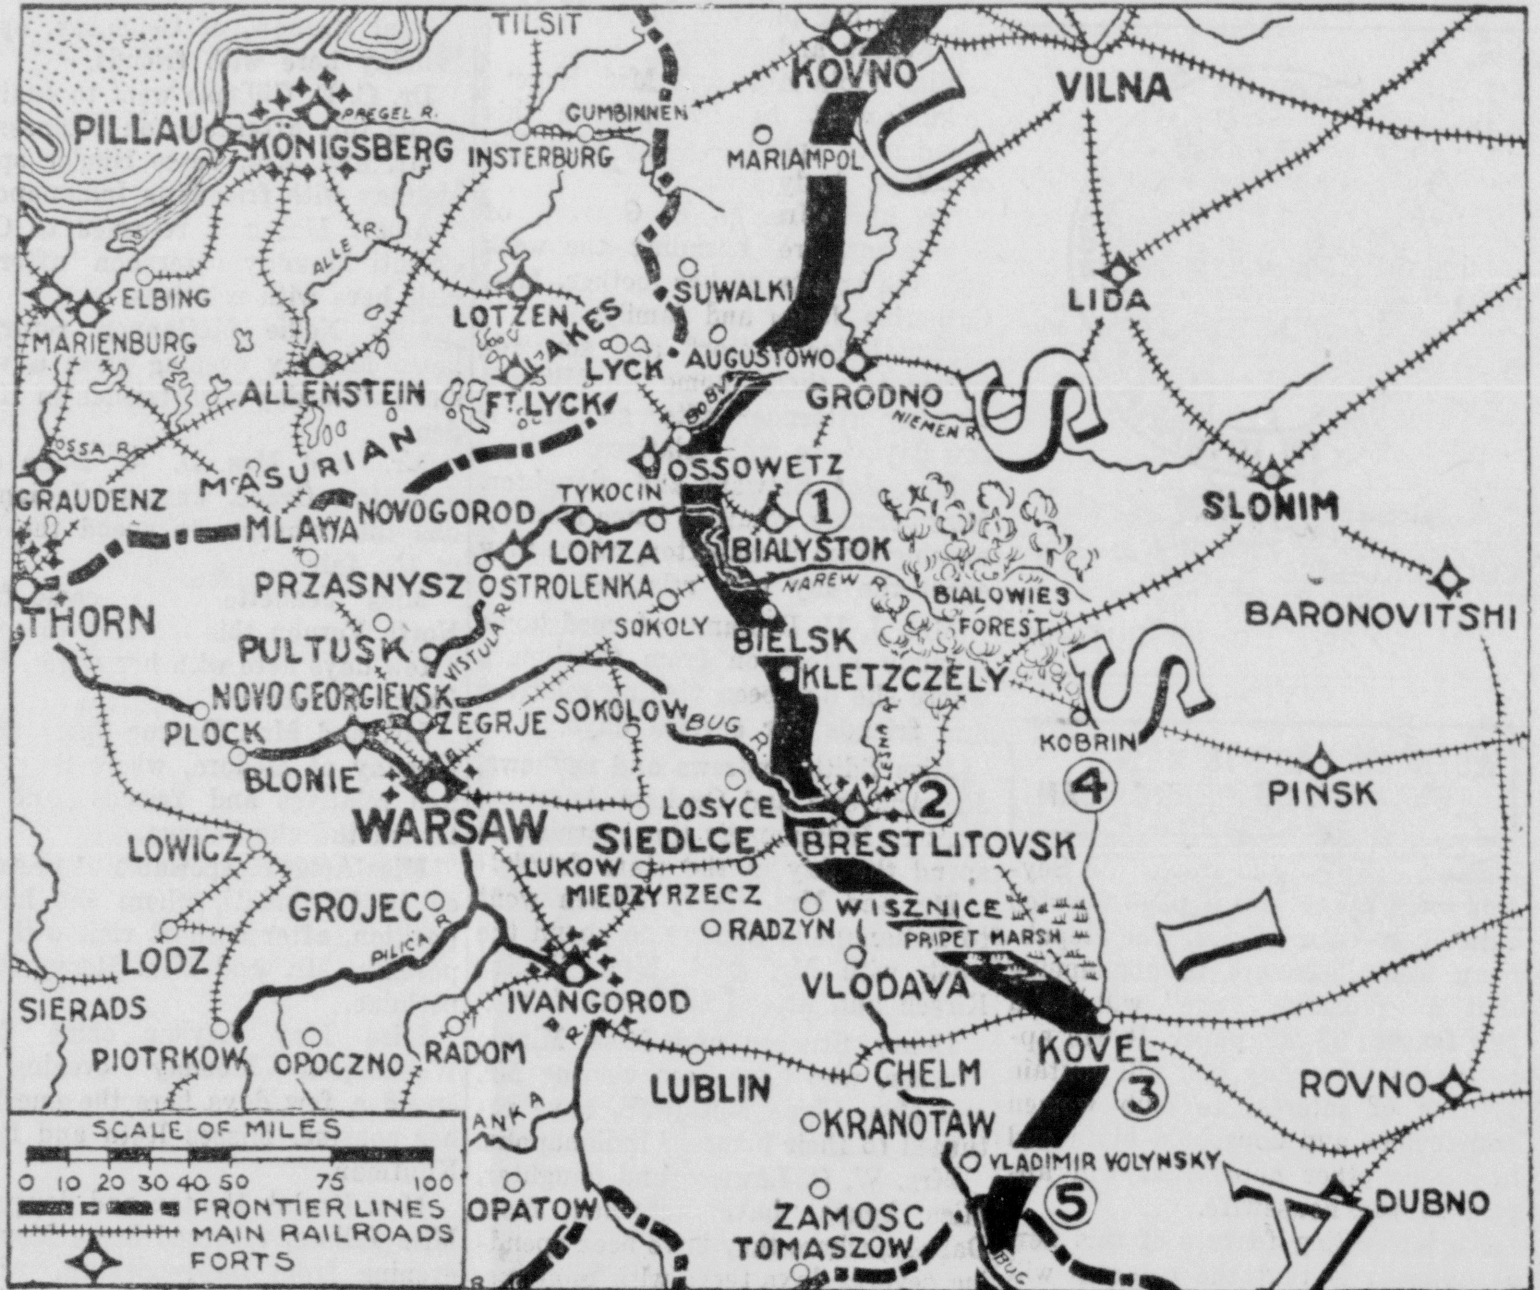

It was almost a physical relief when after the tension the kaiser finished his ten minute talk the brigade commander called for three cheers for "the kaiser and the fatherland" and a triple hurrah from 10,000 throats rolled over the plain.

Polish Refugees There.

I looked around to the ruined Russian fort at the back, to the pillars of dense smoke rising from Novogeorgievsk, to the Polish refugees, men, women carrying babes, bedding and household goods, children, dogs, cows and horses straggling along the miry road.

A long, dirty brown line at the back, stretching over the horizon, being the 20,000 prisoners about to enter Germany, added the finishing touch to the wonderful picture.

But there was more to come. The crazy little band played "Heil dir im

THE ATTACK ON RUSSIA'S "SECOND LINE."

Teutons. It is plain that the Russian army, however much weakened, is still strong.

Could Capture Petrograd.

It is equally plain that if the Russian army could not stand on either of its fortress barriers it cannot hope to stand in the open field. There is no room for reasonable doubt that if the kaiser should see fit to make the effort and take the risk he can drive his army to Petrograd.

In this event he takes a double risk. He proceeds far into hostile territory and opens himself to the same kind of counterattack with which the Russians destroyed Napoleon's grand army. He also removes the bulk of his best troops to a very great distance from the western front.

The accompanying map shows the tremendous advances made by the invaders. The evacuation of the fortress of Ossowetz by the Russians cleared the way for the Germans to circle Bialystok (1), south of which the army of Prince Leopold of Bavaria has reached the great forest of Bialowies. Austrian and German armies then took Brest Litovsk (2), approaching the Lesna river on the north. From Kovno (3) a double movement is being carried out. Austro-German cavalry is moving on Kobrin (4), with the evident intention of cutting the railway from Brest Litovsk to Pinsk, at the same time avoiding the dangers of Pripiet swamp, and the Hovved hussars advanced along the railway from Kovno to Brest Litovsk. This line in the other direction leads to the important bases of South Russia. In the north the main movement against the "second line" aims at Vilna and possibly beyond that at Minsk, both important railway centers. Below Vladimir Volynsky (5) there is little activity.

Kaiser at Novogeorgievsk.

German joy was unconfined at the fall of Novogeorgievsk. The New York Times correspondent sends the following story about the reception of the kaiser in that fortress city:

By rare good luck I stumbled upon the interesting experience of seeing the kaiser alight for the second time. He had motored from Warsaw to view the fallen fortresses.

When approaching the outer fort on the east front a field gray car containing the war minister, Wild von Hohenlances, backed by a battery of field artillery.

Wary veterans were electrified as the kaiser passed up and down the lines, looking them over with keen glances.

Even the Bands Charge.

I had the good fortune once to be close enough to catch a flash of his eyes, for which these men cheerfully die. Then the commanding general shrieked out a high pitched command that set the whole mass in motion. Cavalry and infantry on both wings charged ahead, the landsturm with leveled bayonets. Even the bandsmen charged. A series of evolutions were quickly executed and resulted in a huge square of troops about the kaiser and his retinue. Then a deathlike silence fell on the troops as the kaiser advanced alone to the center of the square. I had a place directly opposite the kaiser, who was not fifty yards away, and I was able through my fieldglasses to mark his every slightest move and the changing shades of expression that mirrored his emotions.

The kaiser wore a gray-green cloth covered spiked helmet, a long and dark greenish gray overcoat, with the hood hanging down the back. The coat as it flapped showed a bright red lining. There were broad red stripes on the trousers of the uniform of a Prussian general. He also wore a leather belt with a revolver in a holster at his left hip. The emperor carried a round handled malacca walking cane, but no sword. His only visible decoration was the blue Order of Pour le Merite at his throat.

Army One Big Family.

This impressive and solitary figure dominated the assemblage. A thrill went through the closely packed ranks as he began his address with "beloved troops." This seemed to glorify each one. You felt that these soldiers were one large family and that the kaiser was talking to them as a father. A high staff officer confirmed my impression that the kaiser was not delivering a set speech or talking for publication. He was just among his troops in the field, speaking to them from the heart, proud of their achievements, sorrowing for their losses and solicitous for their future and telling them so. Unfortunately I was unable to take down his address verbatim while holding the Siegerkranz" as the kaiser saluted and stood at attention. Then he walked away to rejoin the group of notables. Now as the dominant figure the kaiser had to share honors with Von Hindenburg, who overtopped the kaiser by inches. The grim field marshal bowed low as the war lord clasped his hand. The two remained in conversation several minutes.

Then the kaiser talked with and congratulated the mild eyed and boyish faced Von Beseler, the German battering ram, whose gentle appearance is deceiving.

The chief of staff, General von Falkenhayn, and the war minister, Wild von Hohenborn, joined the intimate group with the kaiser's personal entourage of high dignitaries, the civil and military cabinet, staff of generals and other notables hovering near for the impressive ceremony.

A dozen honor men, heroes of Novogeorgievsk, were presented to the kaiser, who questioned each and shook his hand. Then Von Hindenburg himself pinned iron crosses of the first class to their breasts.

"Well Done!" Says Emperor.

The kaiser's every handclasp said plainer than words, "Well done."

Then came a dramatic moment as the kaiser, with a catch in his voice, called out, "Leb' wohl, meine truppen!" ("Farewell, my troops!"). Several bearded fighters near me brushed their hands across their eyes, deeply moved. There was many a catch in 10,000 throats as the chorus, "Adieu, majestat," rose and died.

Preceded by a cuirassier bearing the imperial standard, a black eagle on yellow, the kaiser, chatting with the conqueror of Antwerp and Novogeorgievsk, passed through a gap in the human square, followed by Von Hindenburg and others, and walked to waiting automobiles on the road 200 yards away. The kaiser strode with long steps, swinging his cane as he walked. An onlooker could not help being impressed by his tremendous vitality as he entered the automobile and sat down.

Then the kaiser, with General von Beseler beside him and General von Falkenhayn on the front seat, motored into burning Novogeorgievsk to view the forts of the citadel and the war booty.

TEUTONIC RUSH SLACKENS UP

Russians Putting Up Desperate Resistance.

NO PROGRESS TOWARDS RIGA

For Present the Germans Apparently Unable to Follow Up Their Drive on the Russian Seaport, Which They Expect to Capture.

London, Sept. 7.—Evidence of further determination of the Russians to hold what little of Galician territory is still in their hands, and where ever forced to retreat to render the gains of the Austro-Germans as costly as possible in men and material, is given in the Austrian war office statement issued in Vienna.

This statement tells of a repetition of violent Russian attacks to the east of the Sereth river, though it adds that "the enemy was repulsed everywhere." A slackening of the Russian offensive east of Brody and west of Dubno also is reported by the Austrian war office.

The Germans apparently have not been able to follow up by further progress toward Riga their capture last Thursday of the important bridgehead of Friedrichstadt. In this particular region there can be no question of the Teutons' determination to dash ahead toward the great Russian Baltic seaport and to permit no considerations to interfere with their onward movement. It is therefore to be presumed that the Russians are putting up a strong and stubborn resistance, resolved to hold the port at all odds. Dispatches from Copenhagen tell of a new entrance of German warships in the Gulf of Riga, driving Russian ships before them. This is taken by some military observers to mean that the Germans are preparing for a joint land and sea attack upon Riga. General von Hessler called "the battering ram" in recognition of his capture of Antwerp and Novo Georgievsk, is to direct the land bombardment.

According to the official German report there is "no change from the Baltic to the eastward of Grodno." This indicates that the advance of the Teutonic allies is markedly slow as compared with their steady onward dash of the month past. Some military critics infer from this that Field Marshal von Hindenburg has decided to give his armies on that front a brief, but much needed rest by reducing the tempo of the march. Reconstruction and further building of the communications also is believed to have to do with the new lull.

Field Marshal von Hindenburg's right wing is reported by Berlin to be approaching the Niemen in its drive on Wilna. Advance of Prince Leopold's armies across the Ros and through the swamps northeast of Prushovo also is reported by the German war office, as is progress of von Mackensen's forces toward Pinsk.

In the Austrian official statement the capture of the last Russian fortified positions south of the Iasiolda river is reported and is regarded as significant.

Dispatches from Petrograd state that General Alexis Evert, who has been in command of one of the Russian armies, has been appointed to succeed General Alexieff as commander in chief on the western front of the Russian theater of war.

More complete details of the aerial bombardment of Luneville, an open town by German aviators on Sept. 1 are given by the French war office.

The German aviators dropped bombs which killed many women and children, besides injuring others.

As a reprisal, a squadron of forty French machines flew to Sarabruk and bombarded the factories and military establishments with apparently good effect.

Artillery combats continued on the entire west front. In the sector of Arras out batteries caused great damage to the German trenches. In the region of Roye, in Champagne, on the Perthes-Beaumont front, in the forest of Apremont and to the north of Clery, the artillery duel was particularly lively. In the Vosges at Schratzmaennle and at Hartmannsweller Kopf heavy bombardment was seen.

Betting on War Probability.

London, Sept. 7.—Insurance underwriters were betting ten to 1 that America would not go to war with Germany before Oct. 30, and five to one that the two countries will not be at war before Dec. 31. The new odds were posted following news of the Hesperian attack.

Small Boy Drowns.

New Albany, Ind., Sept. 7.—Edgar Short, nine-year-old son of Edward Short, superintendent of the plant of the Ohio Falls Iron company, was drowned while bathing in the Ohio river here. The body was recovered.

Promotion For Lord Decies.

London, Sept. 7.—Lord Decies, who married Vivian Gould, has been promoted to the rank of assistant adjutant and quartermaster general. He was hitherto a major of the reserves.

CHAPTER IV.

Too Many Men.

"A conscience must be a nuisance to a rector," sympathized Gail Sargent, as she walked up the hill beside Rev. Smith Boyd.

The tall young rector shifted the thin rope of the sled to his other hand. "Epigrams are usually more clever than true," he finally responded, with a twinkle in his eyes. It had been in his mind to sharply defend that charge, but he reflected that it was unwise to assume the speech worth serious consideration. Moreover, he had come to this toboggan party for healthful physical exercise!

"Then you're guilty of an epigram," retorted Gail, who was annoyed with Rev. Smith Boyd without quite knowing why. "You can't believe all you are compelled, as a minister, to say." "That," returned Rev. Smith Boyd coldly, "is a matter of interpretation." He commended himself for his patience, as he proceeded to instruct this mistaken young person. She was a lovable girl, in spite of the many things he found in her of which to disapprove. "The eye of the needle through which the camel was supposed not to be able to pass, was, in reality, a narrow city gate called the Needle's Eye."

Gail looked at him with that little smile at the corners of her red lips, eyelids down, curved lashes on her cheeks, and beneath the lashes a sparkle brighter than the moonlight on the snow crystals in the adjoining field.

"It seems to me there was something about wealth in that metaphor," she observed, her round eyes flashing open as she smiled up at him. "If it was so difficult even in those days for a rich man to enter the kingdom of heaven, how can a rich church hope to enter the spirit of the gospel?"

Rev. Smith Boyd hastily, and almost roughly, drew her aside, as a long, low bobsled, accompanied by appropriate screams, came streaking down the hill, and passed them. They both turned and followed its progress down the narrowing white road, to where it curved away in a silver line far at

True Secret of Keeping Youthful Looking

(The Beauty Seeker.)

"The real secret of keeping young-looking and beautiful," says a well-known hygienist, "is to keep the liver and bowels normally active. With these organs, poisonous waste products remain in the system, polluting the blood and lodging in various organs, tissues, joints. One becomes flabby, obese, nervous, mentally sluggish, dull-eyed, wrinkled and sallow of face."

"But to get liver and bowels working as they ought, without producing evil after-effects, has been the problem. Fortunately, there is a prescription of unquestioned merit, which may now be had in convenient tablet form. Its value is due largely to an ingredient derived from the humble May apple, or its root, which has been called 'vegetable calomel' because of its effectiveness—though of course it is not really calomel, with the real calomel of mercurial origin. There is no habit-forming constituent in 'sentinel' tablets—that's the name—and their use is not followed by weakness or exhaustion. On the contrary, these harmless vegetable tablets tend to impart tone and elasticity to the relaxed intestinal wall. 'Sentinel' tablets, which may be procured from any druggist—a dime's worth will do—will prove a revelation to any constipated, liver-troubled person."

Chief Cause of Pimples, Blotches, Sallow Skin

(Messenger of Health.)

Unslightly eruptions, pimples, boils, blotches, sallow or muddy skin, usually are due to a sluggish liver, a constipated bowels—and a neglected blood stream as a consequence. How foolish in such cases to resort to outward applications, which can never have natural, permanent results. If more people only knew it, there is a very simple remedy, to be found in any drug store, which is as effective as it is harmless and quick acting. It is an old formula, long recognized by the medical profession, which has been put in tablet form, and at such small cost no one need now be deprived of its wonderful benefits.

"Sentinel tablets"—that's the name—are entirely vegetable and there's no habit-forming ingredient. You need only get about a dime's worth, and swallow one at bedtime to realize there's nothing else quite so good for the purpose. The action in the morning is so easy, so soothing, and instead of a weakening after-effect, you feel truly refreshed and invigorated. Sentinel tablets are not only the finest remedy known for constipation and torpid liver, but offer the sanest, most sensible treatment for common difficulties of the character mentioned.

Great Demand for New Constipation Remedy

"They say that the advent of the 'sentinel tablet' as a vegetable substitute for calomel has resulted in an extraordinary demand for this remarkable product. It seems to have made a hit particularly with those afflicted with chronic constipation, who were quick to recognize its advantages over calomel and the usual laxatives. Sentinel tablets, aside from their efficacy, doubtless owe their success largely to a tendency to aid in bringing about natural functioning—instead of encouraging the 'cathartic habit.' Also, instead of injuring the membranous lining of the organs involved, they exert a healing influence. Instead of weakening, they add tone to the intestinal wall. And they work so easily and gently, they are of course preferred on this account to the violently acting purgatives. Their inexpensiveness is another reason for the popularity of sentinel tablets. One need procure only a dime's worth, and take one tablet upon retiring, to be convinced that the ideal remedy for constipation, torpid liver, and their many evil consequences, has finally been found.—Druggists Review.

column of her neck was white as marble in the moonlight, and, as he sought the clasps, his fingers, drawn from his woollen gloves, touched her warm throat, and they tingled. He started as if he had received an electric shock, and, as he looked into her eyes, a purple mist seemed to spring between them. He mechanically fastened the clasps, though his fingers trembled. "Thank you," again said Gail, and he did not notice that her voice was unusually low. She went on over to the group gathered around the fire, but Rev. Smith Boyd stood where she had left him, staring stupidly at the ground. He was in a whirl of bewilderment, amid which there was some unreasoning resentment, but beneath it all there was an inexplicable sadness.

"Why Are You So Bitter Against the Church?"

"Just in time for the Palisade special, Gail," called Lucile Teasdale. "I don't know," laughed Gail. "I think of going on a private car this trip," and she sought among the group for distraction from certain oppressive thought. Allison, and Lucile and Ted and Arly, were among the more familiar figures, besides a startling Adonis, proudly introduced as Dick Rodley, by Arlene, early in the evening, with an air which plainly stated that he was a personal discovery for which she gave herself great credit.

"The Palisades special will not start without Miss Sargent," he declared, bending upon her an ardent gaze, and bestowing upon her a smile which displayed a flash of perfect white teeth. Gail breathlessly thought him the most dangerously handsome thing she had ever seen, but she missed the foreign accent in him. That would have made him complete.

"I'm sorry that the Palisade special will be delayed," she coolly told him, but she tempered the deliberateness of that decision with an upward and sidelong glance, which she was startled to recognize in herself as distinct coquetry. "I have a prior claim," laughed Allison, stepping up and taking her by the arm. "It's my turn to guide Miss Sargent on the two-passenger sled."

There was something new about Allison tonight. There was the thrill and the exultation of youth in his voice, and twenty years seemed to have been dropped from his age. There was an intensity about him, too, and also a proprietorlike compulsion, which decided Gail on a certain diversion she had entertained. She was oppressed with men tonight. The world was full of them, and they had closed too nearly around her. Suddenly she broke away with a laugh, and, taking the two-passenger sled from Smith Boyd, who still stood in preoccupation at the edge of the group, she picked it up and ran with it, and threw herself face forward on it, as she had done when she was a kiddy, and shot down the hill, to the intense disapproval of Reverend Boyd! Dick Rodley, ever alert in his chosen profession, grabbed a light steel racer from the edge of the bank, and, with a magnificent run, slapped himself on the sled and darted in pursuit! The rector's lip curled the barest trace at one corner, but Edward E. Allison, looking down the hill, grinned, and lit a cigar.

"Coming Allison?" called Cunningham. "There's room for you both, doctor."

"I don't think I'll ride this trip, thanks," returned Allison, and, as the rector also declined with pleasant thanks, Allison gave the voyagers a hearty push, and walked back to the camp fire. "I received the ultimatum of your vestry today, Doctor Boyd," observed Allison when they were alone. "Still that eventual fifty million."

"Well, yes," returned the rector briskly, and backed up comfortably to the blaze. He was a different man now. "We discussed your proposition thoroughly, and decided that, in ten years, the property is worth fifty million to you, for the purpose you have in mind. Consequently why take less?" Allison surveyed him shrewdly for a moment.

"That's the argument of a bandit," he remarked. "Why accept all that the prisoner has when his friends can raise a little more?"

"I don't see the use of metaphor," retorted the rector, who dealt professionally in it. "Business is business." Allison grunted, and flicked his ashes into the fire. "By George, you're right," he agreed.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

"I've been trying to handle you like a church, but now I'm going after you like the business organization you are."

Rev. Smith Boyd reddened. The charge that Market Square church was a remarkably lucrative enterprise was becoming too general for comfort.

"The vestry has given you their decision," he returned, standing stiff and straight, with his hands clasped behind him. "You may pay for the Veder court tenement property a cash sum which, in ten years, will accrue to fifty million dollars, or you may let it alone," and his tone was as forcefully crisp as Allison's, though he could not hide the musical timbre of it.

"I won't pay that price, and I won't let the property alone," Allison snapped back. "The city needs it."

For a moment the two men looked each other levelly in the eyes. There seemed to have sprung up some new enmity between them. A thick man with a stubby mustache came puffing up to the fire, and sat down on his sled with a thump.

"Splendid exercise," he gasped, holding his sides. "I think about a week of it would either reduce me to a living skeleton, or kill me."

"Your vestry's an ass," Allison took pleasure in informing him.

"Same to you and many of them," puffed Jim Sargent. "What's the trouble with you? Trying to take a business advantage of a church."

"I'd have a better chance with a Jew," was Allison's contemptuous reply.

"Oh, see here, Allison!" remonstrated Jim Sargent seriously. He even rose to his feet to make it more emphatic. "You mustn't treat Market Square church with so much indignity."

"Why not? Market Square church puts itself in a position to be considered in the light of any other grasping organization."

Rev. Smith Boyd, finding in himself the growth of a most unclothlike anger, decided to walk away rather than suffer the aggravation which must ensue in this conversation. Consequently, he started down the hill, dragging Jim Sargent's sled behind him for company. There were no further insults to the church, however.

"Jim, what are the relations of the Towando Valley to the L. and C.?" asked Allison, offering Sargent a cigar.

"Largely paternal," and the president of the Towando Valley grinned. "We feed it, when it's good and spank it when it cries."

"Hold control of the stock?"

"No, only its transportation," returned Sargent complacently.

"Stock is a good deal scattered, I suppose?"

"Small holdings entirely, and none of the holders proud," replied Sargent. "It starts no place and comes right back, and the shareholders won't pay postage to send in their annual proxies."

"Then the stock doesn't seem to be worth buying," observed Allison, with vast apparent indifference.

"Only to piece out a collection," chuckled Sargent. "I didn't know you were interested in railroads."

"I wasn't a week ago," and Allison looked out across the starry sky to the tree-scarped hills. "With the completion of the consolidation of New York's transportation system, and the building of a big central station, I thought I was through. It seemed a big achievement to gather all these lines to a common center, like holding them in my hand; to converge four millions of people to one point, to handle them without confusion, and to redistribute them along the same lines, looked like a life's work; but now I'm beginning to become ambitious."

"Oh, I see," grinned Jim Sargent. "You want to do something you can really call a job. If I remember right, ly, you started with an equipment of four horse cars and two miles of rusted rail. What do you want to conquer next?"

Allison glanced down the hill, then back out across the starlit sky. Some new fervor had possessed him tonight which made him a poet, and loosened his tongue which, previous to this, could almost calculate its utterances in percentage.

"The world," he said.

SMALL LIGHTNING DAMAGE AT MEDORA DURING STORM

Chimney at Home of Barney McMillan is Wrecked—Heavy Rain Reported at Other Places.

Several sections of the county were swept by a heavy rain and electrical storm this afternoon. The down-pour continued for several hours. In Seymour the rain began about noon and was accompanied by several vivid flashes of lightning.

Lightning struck the chimney at the home of Barney McMillan, at Medora, and wrecked it. Simpson Goss and several others were standing near Ernest's store at Medora about the time the chimney was hit and felt a shock. None of the men was hurt. No serious damage from lightning is reported.

At Vallonia, Brownstown, Freetown and Crothersville a heavy rain was reported but no electrical damage. The Freetown telephone line from Brownstown was out of commission for several hours after the storm.

SIX INVADERS KILLED IN CLASH WITH RANGERS

U. S. Troops "Laid the Trap and Mexicans Walked Into it," it is Stated.

By United Press.
Brownsville, Tex., Sept. 7.—Six Mexicans were killed in a clash with rangers at Cazaoa Crossing last evening, according to information received here today. The dead are said to include a captain and a lieutenant from the Constitutionalists' garrison at Matamoros. The report briefly stated that the Americans "laid a trap and the Mexicans walked into it." There were no American casualties.

Struck By Car.

August Schmidt, of Springfield, Ohio, was probably fatally injured Monday night when he was struck by train No. 49, northbound, on the Indianapolis, Columbus & Southern Traction Line, five miles south of Columbus. He attempted to flag the car without a light and the motor-man did not see him until too late to halt the car. It was believed the man had been drinking. Schmidt, who was injured internally, was conscious long enough to give his name. He was taken to a hospital at Columbus for treatment.

COUNTY EXHIBIT NOT ENTERED AT STATE FAIR

County Agent Receiving so Many Calls from Farmers He Could Not Arrange It.

Owing to the press of other important work which has arisen in the county during the last few weeks, County Agent Cobb, decided not to take an exhibit to the State Fair from Jackson County this week.

The services of the agent have been so much in demand that he found it impossible to spend sufficient time on an exhibit which would be a credit to the county. In other counties large appropriations had been made by the county officials to finance an exhibit at the fair, and while farmers of this county had pledged sufficient money to send an exhibit, Mr. Cobb said that he did not feel justified in asking them to support an exhibit this year when crops had suffered so severely from weather conditions throughout the entire season.

Since the first of August Mr. Cobb's time has been spoken for fully three weeks in advance, by farmers wishing him to visit their farms for consultations regarding their soils and crops. As a result of his recommendations a large amount of ground limestone has been purchased by local farmers to remedy the acid conditions of their soils. One agent alone has handled four or five carloads of the ground rock. Several report that they are going to increase the amount of fertilizer used on their wheat, and others are going to try some winter vetch with rye, for a manure crop.

"I am more than pleased with the local support that is being given my work," said Cobb today.

Farewell Social.

The B. Y. P. U. will give a farewell social at the church Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock in honor of the college students and teachers who leave in a few days for the winter. All members and friends are cordially invited to attend. s9d
